ACADEMIAN 1955

A student spends much of the time between nine and five, thirty-two weeks a year, before a teacher in a classroom. In small groups, where student and master know each other thoroughly, formal education is kept on a personal plane. At Shady Side relationships between teacher and student are therefore easy and informal.

In the time the student has to call his own — those hours untrammelled by classes and free from obligations to activities — he turns to his friends for companionship and relaxation. Whether he realizes it or not, he is gaining much of pleasure and value. From these student-student relationships, in fact, comes the most important learning the school can offer.

Here, by word and picture, is a record of the school year: the work, the activities, the events, those teaching and guiding, and those learning. Underlying all are significant human relationships.

Extracurricular activities, be they athletics, clubs, publications, or discussion groups, bring student and teacher into close contact. Guidance is personal; experience in working together is stimulating; friendships are enjoyable and lasting. When classroom teacher turns coach or adviser, and student quits the grind to become player, leader, or contributor, master-student relationships are indeed rewarding.

The setting – from Mellon Gates to Curry Field

LEARNING

Strictly speaking, the devices of lectures, problems, reports, exercises, discussion, and homework are the bases of learning at Shady Side. The most meaningful experiences, however, result from the classroom atmosphere. In intimate sections where spontaneous and informative discussions can easily take place, when friendly yet respectful relations can be maintained, close contact between master and student stimulates interest in work. From Form II through Form VI, the personal guidance and constructive criticism that comes as a result of this harmony continues to provide a healthy climate for college preparation.

FACULTY

1. The first part of the report is a description of the project and the objectives of the study. This is followed by a brief review of the literature relevant to the project. The next part of the report is a description of the methodology used in the study. This is followed by a description of the results of the study. The final part of the report is a discussion of the results and the conclusions of the study.

Crawford toots his own horn during a music lesson with Mr. Cocese

Mr. Cook demonstrates the power saw to Anderson and Ahlbrandt. Waddell fetches wood for Levin to plane, and Pearlman supplies Reiber with jig saw material.

Second Formers work in shop and studio

Mr. Cochran helps his amateur potters, Schumacher, Diamond, H. Douglass, Mullins, Flannery, and Margolis tend to business. Bell, F. Goldman, and especially Carson will bear watching.

DOING

Extra-curricular activities make school something more than mere classes. During the year students participate in nine competitive sports enjoying themselves and learning as they do so. Publishing the yearbook, the newspaper, and the literary magazine helps students learn responsibility just as holding discussions and forums encourages tolerance and awareness. In studio, shop, and darkroom Shady Siders express themselves creatively and contribute to school life.

In each activity a coach or faculty adviser stands by to instruct, guide, and encourage the players or participants. The relationships that exist between masters and students as they do things outside the classroom are valuable and enjoyable.

The difficult job of summing up the school year and representing all facets of Academy life found the editors of the various sections of the Academian, Shady Side's yearbook, devoting most of their free time to meeting their deadlines

A new scheme of organization which put the responsibility of production firmly upon the Senior editors made work on the yearbook a truly educational experience — educational in more ways than one

The Editorial Staff were not the only hard workers, however, for the Business Staff's efforts in the field of advertising made possible the financing of publishing the book. The Faculty Advisers to the Academian, Mr. Carl M. Cochran, Mr. Douglas R. Lewis, and Mr. Samuel J. Hazo, Jr., closely followed the staff's work and gave their advice to make the yearbook a success

Somebody goofed and everyone seems to be enjoying it. Eversmann (Junior School Editor), Mr. Lewis (Adviser), W. Collins (Editor-in-Chief), Reinhardt (Senior and Dormitory Editor), Mr. Cochran (Adviser), Curran (Activities Editor), Stone (Advertising Editor), and Stinson (Faculty and Underform Editor). Missing are Lebowitz (Sports Editor), and Barnebey (Photography Editor)

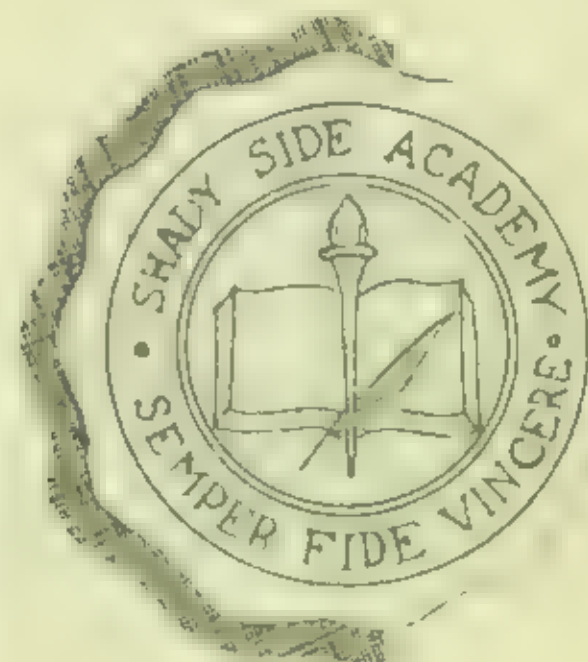

For students with the urge to write, the Egerian, under the guidance of Mr. Willard E Mead, offers an outlet for creative efforts. Anything from a good fiction story to a funny poem to a modernistic drawing can be found within the covers of this literary magazine.

Preliminary to publication the students' efforts are selected by a student board. Opportunities are open to any student regardless of his class or previous experience in writing.

NEWS Instructs In Journalism

Writing stories and columns, laying out pages, meeting a deadline, checking the galleys, and counting heads are just a few of the responsibilities boys learn to handle when they work for the Shady Side News. All phases of putting out the News, except the actual printing, are done by the students themselves.

A four-page bi-weekly, the News is usually tops in its class, having regularly won awards in the contests sponsored by the University of Pittsburgh and the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. The eight-page Christmas edition has for several years been the big project for News boys.

This year's staff, under the guidance of John A. Handley, (Editor-in-Chief), and Mr J. Leslie Firth (Faculty Adviser), continued the high quality of past years.

Student Council Fosters Responsibility

Greater responsibility on the part of the students was the keynote of the policy of the Student Council this year. Planning and guiding the United Charities Drive, a new venture, was so efficiently handled that the goal of $1,000 in pledges was topped by $183.95. Collections after lunch on Tuesdays became a familiar part of the weekly routine.

During the late winter, several members of the council were given the responsibility of reading the daily announcements at luncheon. Another new feature was the tea dance sponsored by the Council on a trial basis March 5, the last day of the winter sports' schedule.

Sargon Society Honors Leaders

The Sargon Society, an honorary group designed to give recognition to the school leaders from the Fifth and Sixth Forms, became active soon after the fall sports season when the four members from last year topped six boys as new members. Membership was later increased when more top days were held.

The three week pledging period, culminating in the traditional Hell Night, ushered the new members into the society. This year new regulations were adopted, which, in future years, will limit even more closely the membership to those boys who make significant contributions to school life.

This year's Gargoyle Society returned to their policy of many years ago by putting on two plays. Utilizing the facilities of Memorial Hall, the Society on December 9 presented Lord Dunsany's "A Night at the Inn."

On March 18, Agatha Christie's murder mystery, "Ten Little Indians," was presented before a record-breaking audience at the Withers Gymnasium of the Junior School. The leads in this play were the secretary, played by Trevor Donald, the aspiring wolf, played by Brownlow Speer, and the homicidal maniac judge, played by Leslie Buncher.

Gargoyle Encourages Interest In Drama

"Really?" as Buncher, B. Speer, Donald, and Warden rehearse a scene from "Ten Little Indians."

Under the guidance of Mr. Charles Schmitt, the Glee Club started rehearsals, somewhat belatedly, in the first week of December. With but a few weeks of practice behind them, the group was featured at a Christmas vesper service, December 12.

All through January and February, progress was rapid enough to allow the boys to keep their annual musical date with the Ellis girls, March 18. The concert found the Glee Club doing five numbers, ranging from "Certain'y Lawd," a Negro spiritual, to the ever-popular "Orchestra Song." The Club also made a four-part recording of the Alma Mater, used on the February television program featuring the Academy. The concert season was successfully terminated with an out-door presentation in May.

St. Andrew's Covers Ethical Issues

St. Andrew's Society, a discussion group meeting on alternate Wednesday evenings, held a successful series of speeches given by people from the Pittsburgh district and designed to increase the tolerance accorded different people and ideas. Some of the more prominent were talks on social agencies here in Pittsburgh by Mr. Harry Serotkin on December 1, the theories of the Conscientious Objector by Mr. Willard E. Mead of our own faculty on January 12, "The Social Foundations of Religion in America" by Professor William Pinkerton on February 16, and "The Christian Scientist Movement" by C. B. Hathaway on March 12.

The meetings on religious and moral issues, moderated by Mr. G. L. Follansbee, provided an outlet for the lively discussions on controversial subjects.

Forum Deals With Current Events

The Forum, the second discussion group on campus, opened their year by asking the members to pick from a list of twenty suggested current events topics the ones the boys wanted to hear most.

Acting on the results of the poll, the Forum officers set about putting together a series of speeches. The program ultimately included talks by a state policeman on teen-age driving October 27, David Curry ('47) on conditions in Korea, February 9, Dr. Eddie Baker on the de-emphasis of sports in the smaller colleges, December 8, and a dual debate between Edgewood High School and Shady Side, November 17.

Flanked by Herrington (Secretary-Treasurer) and Hendel (Vice President), Walker (President) brings the Forum to order for a Wednesday session.

Debate Team Sharpens Reasoning

The enthusiastic members of the Debating Team, under the capable tutelage of Mr. Arlin M. Cook and Mr. Samuel J. Hazo, Jr., had an active and successful season. The team participated in tournaments at St. Vincent Preparatory School, Edgewood High School, Grove City College, and the University of Pittsburgh, and even entered a second team in the Pitt Tournament. Shady Side played host in two interesting dual matches to Edgewood and Central Catholic High Schools.

The Shady Side team acquitted itself favorably in the Allegheney County Tournament by taking third place. The topic for the season was "Resolved: that the United States should adopt a policy of free trade with friendly nations."

Edgewood debaters (on the right) get together on notes and Hendel and Walker relax as Lloyd holds forth on the virtues of free trade.

Not Fishing? ... Fishing! T. Meyer, Mr. Jones, Mrs. Jones. A year's work in the pursuit of the trout of Somerset.

Fishing Club Enjoys Outdoor Activity

The main events on the Fishing Club's calendar are its one-day and week-end trips to favorite fishing spots in the Pittsburgh area. This year the fishers traveled twice to Lake Chautauqua, N. Y. and once to Somerset, Pa.

These excursions constituted the practical application of skills learned by the members through the year. Mr. F. Walter Jones, Faculty Adviser, used the gymnasium and the Wednesday afternoon activities period to good advantage as he instructed the boys in the fundamentals of bait and fly casting, fly tying and "fish story" telling.

Clockwise from the foreground: Little T. Jones, Anthony, Jones, F. Walter Jones, Mr. Jones. What chance would any fish have against the line-up?

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Botset, but I really did forget it was my period to come over." This little drama, re-enacted every once in a while, is in most of the cases met with polite scepticism on the part of the school librarian, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Botset.

Even she, however, admits that the Library Committee throughout the year performs a distinct service to the school. Besides their regular chores of replacing books on the shelves and making out attendance slips, many of the seniors participating in the activity take over control of the library when Mrs. Botset is busy with remedial reading classes, and help compile the statistics on library usage.

Mrs. Botset reviews with Shrum and Eisinger the uses of the card file.

Audio-Visual Provides Announcing Service

Mr. Thorpe (Adviser) demonstrates the assembly of the mike to Voelp, Mullins, Buncher, Markus, Warrick, Shrum (Senior Announcer), Lynch (Senior Technician), Waddell, H. Clark, Dinky (Senior Projectionist), and Fulton

Buncher and Markus find it a hard job but the new equipment and making them is more fun.

In November, the Public Address Crew combined with Mr. John S. Thorpe's Audio-Visual Aids Group to form an enlarged campus organization known officially as the Audio-Visual Aids Service Group.

In order to clear up confusion resulting from not knowing the abilities of the boys in the club, Mr. Thorpe devised tests to ascertain where each boy fitted best — as Projectionist, Technician, or Student Announcer.

This year's main project was adjusting the built-in amplifying system in Memorial Hall in order to improve its efficiency. Popular activities within the club were selling hot dogs at the football games and announcing for the track meets in the spring.

Fetter, Rauh, W. Johnson, J. Hill, W. Meyer, T. Hamilton, Lord, and Dodge look on as Mr. Cochran uses Butts work to demonstrate a point on technique of pen and ink drawing

Art Club Furthers Creative Talents

An innovation in the Art Club's program this year was a mid-winter exhibit of paintings and sketches done by the students. Prizes in this group were taken by Alan Topper, James Stinson, Daniel Butts, and Brian Mullins. The annual Commencement program sponsored by the Art Club for the past eleven years and featuring crafts — metal work, ceramic, and enamel on metal — was moved up to the end of May in order to allow more people to view the student crafts.

In addition to these student shows, the club also sponsored exhibitions by the Abstract Group of Pittsburgh and a group of alumni architects.

Topper, receiving award for work entered in the mid-winter student exhibition of paintings, seems eager to get his hands on the money. Stinson, another winner, seems happy about the whole affair.

Although the Shop Club is a relatively new activity on campus, it has quickly become an integral part of Shady Side life. Almost any afternoon, a busy group of enterprising students could be found at work in the Croft Hall basement shop, making signs to guide visitors at Shady Side or constructing sorely-needed hurdles for the track team.

Building sixty hurdles was probably the Club's most ambitious project to date, for they finished them in time for the track season. In addition to doing these service tasks, many students worked on individual projects while learning the many skills employed in wood-working.

Crane (President) and Baker (Secretary Treasurer) use planer in preparing track hurdles. Mendelson (Vice President) should have been there, but was a victim of measles.

Shop Club Fashions Craftsmen

Crane, Rosenthal, Phillips, Rust, J. Birmingham, Baker, Pearlman, Kurtz, Hassenplug, Thoma, Levin, and Wilson watch as Mr. Cook demonstrates how to paint without leaving brushmarks. The big project? The new hurdles for the track team.

Handey (Secretary Treasurer), Blatchford, Brandt, and Weiner work to conquer the intricacies of the enlarger under the guidance of an old pro, Shrum (President)

Besides encouraging photographic interest among its members, the Photography Club performs many services for the school. Taking pictures for the News and handling the assembly line process of taking identification photos for the office files, for instance, are annual projects

During the fall, Mr. John S. Thorpe, faculty adviser for the activity, can always be found with several of his proteges in the tower above the stands taking movies of the football games. At meetings advanced photographers and beginners alike work out problems and discuss various phases of picture-taking, developing, and enlarging

Wetzel, Thorsteinson, H. Clark, Cantor, Handley, Sickles (Vice President), Shrum, Buncher, Knepper, Lubow, Weiner, and Markus with Mr. Thorpe at desk. This time it's the other end of the camera that has their attention

The Jonesmen, although showing only a mediocre record this season, strengthened their chances for next year by giving valuable experience to several sophomores and juniors.

The 2-5 record was not indicative of the play on the part of the S S A. team. Although outclassed by Ligonier and Oakmont in the first two games of the season, Shady Side showed well in both contests. After downing Elders Ridge and W R A. on successive Saturdays, the S S A. gridgers fell victim to two strong league teams, Cranbrook and University School. The season ended with a 35-0 drubbing by Nichols.

The captaincy, this year held competently by Ed Connell, goes next year to veteran full-back Clark Rollins.

The S S A. soccer team was unable in 1954 to repeat its previous successful seasons. While compiling a creditable 5-2 record against local opponents, the booters dropped all four of their league contests, for a record of 5-6 and a last-place finish in the league. Bill Runnette led the scoring for the season with eight goals, followed by Peter Tynberg with seven.

The captaincy, held jointly this season by Neil Van Horn and Al Solomon, goes next year to Pete Tynberg. Coaches Berg and Lewis, with the nucleus of a strong team in six returning lettermen, expect the team to regain its top form and a high position in the league in '55.

The basketball team, captained by George Graham, ended the season with an unimpressive record of five wins and fourteen losses. The dribblers met the usual tough competition in the city schools with the result that the Indians won only three contests while dropping twelve. In the league, Shady Side compiled a 2-2 record to gain third place behind U.S. and Cranbrook. Although this record does not indicate the successful basketball campaign, Head Coach Jones believes that the interest, enthusiasm, and sportsmanship which prevailed among the boys throughout the season was the ultimate mark of success. Next year's outcome depends on the services of captain-elect Bill Kirkpatrick and an experienced Junior Varsity team.

Nickel pounds one out to second base

Last year's baseball team headed by Mike Cipolane as captain and supported by twelve lettermen completed a comparatively poor season in winning only two games while losing eight. In the league, the Indians fell to the cellar by dropping all four of their league contests. The highpoint of the campaign for the batsmen came when Jack Heppenstall pitched the Indians to a no-hit, no-run victory over Linsly Military Institute. This season's outcome depends largely on an experienced nucleus composed of the four returning letter winners and led by co-captains Graham and Nickel. Headmaster George Follansbee will add his baseball prowess to that of Mr. Thorpe in coaching the varsity nine.

Captain Steinman shows his teeth in a smile of success

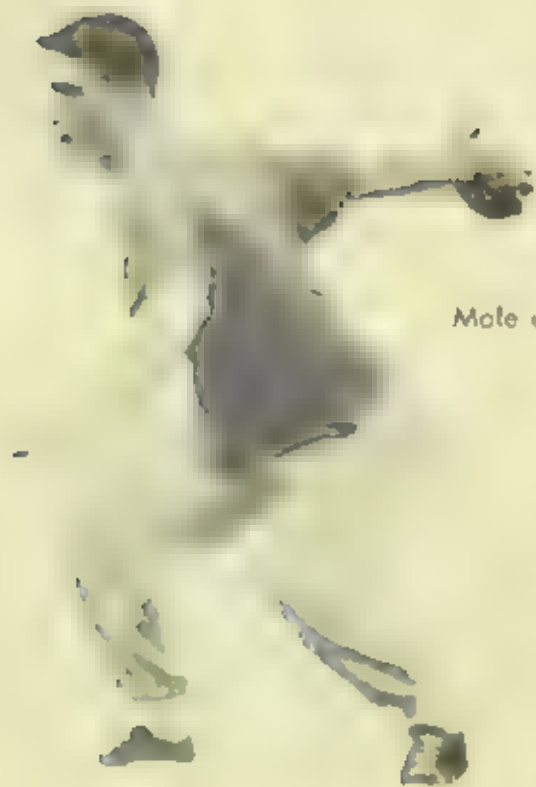

Mr. Abercrombie's golf proteges had a mediocre season's record of 6-4 in 1954. The boys, led by Captain Jack Shenkan, often had trouble in combining their best efforts as a team. The team opened the season with a 5-0 shutout over Ambridge but dropped their next two encounters to a good West View team and to Penn High. After losing a close match to Kiski, 8-7, the Indians rebounded with wins over Ambridge and Wilkinsburg. Shady Side avenged an earlier defeat by overwhelming Kiski, 14-1, but again fell victim to West View. The golfers ended the season with wins over Plum and their annual rivals, the Faculty. Pete Parker was low medalist for the year while Clark Steinman is Captain for the 1955 season.

1954 seemed to be an off year for track at Shady Side after good seasons in 1952 and 1953. The team, coached by Mr. F. Walter Jones, had a poor record of 2 and 5. The problem, a lack of good material in the long-distance and weight events, seriously hampered Shady Side's scoring punch. Captain John Flannery led the team with consistent high scoring in 100 yard, 220 yard, and 440 yard runs. Jim Hedberg, Larry Niemann, and Neil Van Horn helped the team by copping many seconds and thirds. The over-all lack of depth, however, seemed to account for the dismal showing which netted S S A. last place in the League meet. Captain for this year is Tom Moore.

Captain John Dennis stretches to serve

The 1954 tennis team, coached by Mr Richard Gregory, turned in a fine season, dropping only one match all year. Unfortunately, the one loss, to a very strong Cranbrook team, forced the Indians to take second place in the league. Led by Captain Jim Hedberg, Tim Smelzer and John Dennis rounded out the singles players. Bill Runnette teamed up with Thatcher Schwartz while Charlie Sutherland, a sophomore, was paired with Barry Thoma. These two doubles teams gave Shady Side a consistent scoring punch. Although last year's team turned in a good showing, an even better team is expected this year under the captaincy of John Dennis. Only three regulars graduated, while many good younger boys are available.

LIVING

To a Shady Side student the daily contact with his fellows and the frequent formal and informal events are the parts of school life that he can absorb with most gusto. Day boy and boarder alike share friendships — many to last for years to come. In dorm life, a boarder learns to get along with and to respect others, he gains also a sense of cooperation in study. Bull sessions, feeds, and dances help make his school life full and memorable. Parties and athletic events give all students a chance to be together and to enjoy themselves socially. As Stephen Leacock put it: "The real thing for the student is the life and environment that surround him."

WE SALUTE

After devoting thirty years of his life to Shady Side Academy, Mr. Allen V. Laub retires. His achievements at the school have left a deep impression on every phase of campus life.

Besides heading the language department, Mr. Laub taught classes in Spanish, German, Latin, and Italian. The fact that three of Mr. Laub's pupils have won highest ratings for College Board Exams both in German and Spanish is a credit to his teaching abilities. Despite his full teaching schedule, Mr. Laub always found time for various activities such as founding and leading the Academy Christmas carol service. His avid musical interests ranged from singing in the famous Bethlehem Bach Choir and the Mendelssohn Choir to participating in the faculty quartet and singing professionally in church quartets.

In his retirement Mr. Laub will continue his hobby of music and spend some time tutoring.

MR. ALLEN V. LAUB

MR. CLAUDE H. HUBBARD

Twenty-five years of faithful service to Arnold School and Shady Side Academy came to an end with the retirement of Mr. Claude H. Hubbard. For many years, Mr. Hubbard was director of athletics at the Arnold School. After Arnold's merger with Shady Side in 1940, he became the fifth-form teacher at the newly-formed Junior School, and was eventually named director of athletics there. In 1948 the State of Pennsylvania awarded Mr. Hubbard an honor medal for his outstanding work in physical education. Then too, Mr. Hubbard won an honor medal for his outstanding County unit of the Western Pennsylvania Society for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation. Mr. Hubbard's interests in recreational activities extended to his New Hampshire summer camp for boys.

After retiring, Mr. Hubbard plans to continue in some phase of educational work. He also hopes to take some trips with his wife.

IN MEMORIAM

MISS ALVILDA OLIVER, R N

Seldom does one find a person with the qualities of thoughtfulness, devotion, and efficiency so highly developed as they were in the personality of Miss Alvilda Oliver, whose thirty year career as school nurse at Shady Side ended with her unexpected death on February 3, 1955

In administering to the needs of generations of Shady Side students, to faculty and staff, and to campus children, Miss Oliver always displayed a cheerful disposition and a solicitous, almost maternal, attention. Nothing was too much trouble. Whether coping with broken limbs or checking the diet of a student with an allergy, she performed her duties well, in good humor, and with extra measure.

Her passing has surely created a void at Shady Side.

Those who knew Bill only casually will remember him as a big blond kid, rugged in appearance, quick to smile, and full of boyish gags and pranks. Those who were intimately acquainted with Bill will remember him also as a good student and a warm, sincere friend. He carried this sincerity into all extra curricular activities in which he participated. A co-originator of the Jazz Club, Bill also was active in the Photography Club, Public Address Crew, and soccer squad.

A loss to family, fellow students, faculty, and his many friends, Bill, who died on August 3, 1954, in a swimming accident in Lake Champlain, New York, has been particularly missed by the class of '56.

JUNIOR SCHOOL

As a rule friendships between the elementary school pupil and teacher are frankly exhibited and openly enjoyed by both. In the early years the pupil-teacher relationship is built primarily upon the dependence of pupil upon teacher. As time passes, an increasing degree of responsibility and independence marks the maturing process in the pupil. Later come ventures into activities definitely apart from classroom instruction. When boys organize for competition in sports, put on plays, sponsor musical programs, one can be sure there is a devoted teacher behind him, guiding, urging, and encouraging. The relationships are genial ones. Moreover, student-student relationships are never more intense and natural than they are at this time.

JR SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

The Junior School News writers, Heinz Hosk, [illegible], [illegible], [illegible], and [illegible].

ACTIVITIES

The work of Timmy Hill, Malcolm Cochran, and Peter McMillen, members of the Academian Associates, was greatly appreciated by the Junior School Editor this year.

Besides the associates for the Senior School News, the Junior School prints its own newspaper whose writers are Ferguson, Robinson, Lott, Golumb, Reiber, Malone, Crawford, and Blair.

Last winter the Fifth Form presented its television program with the help of Mr Hubbard. The entire class participated

ADVERTISEMENTS

The link between Pittsburgh and Shady Side is one of great importance and value. Shady Side supplies the education to those who will eventually lead the growth, cultural and physical, of this steadily-rising metropolitan area. The school is therefore a necessary and vital part of Pittsburgh. In return, Pittsburgh friends of the Academy, by advertising in this book, evidence their generous support of the school and its activities. It is this fortunate relationship of mutual enrichment and profit that is the key to the progress of both city and school.

MODERN BUILT-IN GAS RANGES

Just what women want! New! Modern! And so convenient! There's no limit to design possibilities. Waist-high oven with eye-level controls, and top burners can go anywhere in the kitchen. You can plan many different arrangements, using modern building materials because closed-door broiling prevents the escape of surface-scorching heat and finish-staining greasy smoke.

Women want these, too! Dependable, economical fuel, automatic cooking, exact choice of heat, instant heat, instant shut-off. You get them all only with GAS!

Make sure your plans include modern built-in GAS ranges

Telephone: GR ant 1-7246

National Steel was organized in 1929. Today, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, operations and properties in 12 states, and 30,000 employees, National Steel is a completely integrated and self-contained organization . . . the fifth largest steel producing company in the United States.

The wide range of steels it manufactures is distributed in this country through offices in all steel consuming areas, and abroad through representatives in 33 key trade centers around the world.

The National Steel network extends to:

- Weirton, West Virginia, the home of Weirton Steel Company, which operates the world's largest tin mill and produces a wide range of other steel products.
- Detroit, Michigan, where Great Lakes Steel Corporation is the world's largest supplier of cold rolled sheet steel used in automobile manufacture, and is a major supplier of carbon and special steels for industry in general.

- Detroit and also Terre Haute, Indiana, where the Stran-Steel Division produces world-famous Quonset buildings.

- Cleveland, Ohio, from where National's fleet of lake ore carriers is operated, and from where Hanna Iron Ore Company directs the mining of ore from National properties in all principal U. S. ranges.

- Labrador-Quebec, where National has a large interest in the new Canadian iron ore development.

- Buffalo New York, where Hanna Furnace Corporation produces pig iron.

- Houston, Texas, where National Steel Products Company distributes steel throughout the Southwest.

And to the homes and industries throughout the nation where steel from National serves in countless ways.

YOU CAN BUILD FOR THE AGES ...with a STEEL FOR THE AGES

What's the building on your mind? Maybe a big multi-story structure—or an industrial building, like our own Research Laboratory (see above)? Maybe a plant office building—or a bank, store, school, power station, warehouse, hospital, hotel? Or perhaps it's an existing structure that needs a facelifting—modernizing the exterior, as well as the interior.

In any case, you're sure to consider curtain wall construction, because it's the newest, most modern method. Packed with advantages over masonry, too—such as fast, all-weather installation, more space per floor, more floors on a given foundation, etc. And you'll be equally sure to realize that stainless steel surfaced panels (again, see above) promise the best long-term protection for the building investment. No other surfacing material is at once as hard, tough, strong, and lastingly beautiful, as impervious to wear and as resistant to heat and corrosive influences as stainless steel.

That's just why Allegheny Metal generally figures to last longer and cost less in the long run—whatever you use it. Let us help you to realize its benefits. Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corporation, Oliver Bldg., Pittsburgh 22, Pa.

"With brains, sir!"

The great artist, Sir Joshua Reynolds, is said to have made this reply when asked with what he mixed his paints to achieve such perfect colors.

We call it imagination.

Imagination is the key to the treasury of success! It splits the atom. It harnesses cosmic energy. It converts a lump of common coal into chemicals for use in agriculture, industry and medicine.

Coal, like all natural resources, is chemically composed. When burned as a fuel the only benefit derived from it is heat. But, if carbonized in a chamber from which air is excluded, coal can be converted into coke, gas, oils, ammonia, and tar. Some of these components can be still further subdivided into an almost endless variety of other chemicals.

Our modern coal-chemical plant, which makes this amazing metamorphosis possible, had to be imagined first!
